"Your organisation is running a challenging project – you're at mid-term and not quite reaching your targets. You need support fast to motivate your staff, rework a quarterly plan, set achievable short term goals and invigorate team dynamics to tackle the project with new life."

Services

As multidisciplinary experts we can step in to provide technical support, one-to-one consultation, coaching, mentoring, training, IEC development and capacity building; or we can step back and offer a thorough objective assessment during any phase of a public health operation.

Client consultation to work with the client one-to-one to determine the specific needs of the project and how we can be of assistance.

Assessments

- Health needs assessments
- Health impact assessments
- Situation analyses
- Rapid appraisals
- Health equity audits
- External evaluations
- Stakeholder analyses

Technical support

at any stage of the project spiral

"Your to-do list is getting longer by the day and you're not managing to effectively carry out the dissemination of your work to date. You need experts to assist you on key projects to draw out core findings and create ways to disseminate the results in line with your programme goals."

Training & capacity building

- Technical skills relevant to public health interventions
- Health promotion for managers, health workers and communities
- Internships for Master level public health students
- Research methods for project staff
- Updates and refreshers for teams to bring them up to date on key public health developments

Clients

- Non-governmental organisations
- Donor groups
- Community organisations
- Government ministries and agencies
- Hospitals and clinics
- Corporations
- Academic institutions

"You are developing a new funding proposal and require experts to review it objectively and provide valuable input; or you have funds with a dream to spend them on a target population – you have the ideas but need the technical support to make it happen."
